

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

There is disclosed methods of creating a presentation of and presenting the abilities of and requirements of a person. A method may include capturing a subject video sequence of a subject person and editing it. An observer video sequence may be captured and edited. A text portion concerning the subject person may be prepared. A subject summary screen that includes links to the edited subject video sequence, the edited observer video sequence, and the text portions may be created. A method may include presenting an opening screen having a plurality of hypertext links. A selected video item may be presented when a video item link is selected, and a selected text item may be presented when a text item link is selected. The selected text item may concern the subject person, and the selected video item may concern and show the subject person or another person.